and uncomfortable driving over the arid districts in midsummer, and for that reason their schedule was rearranged to permit them to make their trip when the climate would be more agreeable.

It is the purpose of the committee to start in North Dakota, go thence into Montana and Idaho, and on through Washington, to the Seattle exposition. After visiting the projects in northern and eastern Oregon, they go to Minidoka and the Boise-Payette project in southern Idaho, thence into Utah, Wyoming and Colorado, and westerly to California. The return trip will be by way of southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. This is practically a reversal of the route covered by the house committee on irrigation, which covered this field in 1905 For several years past there has been has been unduly strict with settlers. There have also been charges that the reclamation fund has not at all times been wisely expended. The committee is to make its trip of inspection to ascertain first hand whether or not the charges or any of them are well founded, and to ascertain in what respects it may be ad-visable to amend the terms of the reclamation act.
